

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

September 4, 2009

Press Contact: Amber Grabowski

203-263-3711, ext. 10 or www.flandersnaturecenter.org

September Children's Programs at Flanders

WOODBURY – In September, Flanders Nature Center & Land Trust will again offer “Outdoor Rangers” on Mondays and Tuesdays, and “Be Smart with Art” on Wednesdays and Thursdays, two popular programs designed for pre-K children 3 to 5 years of age.

The programs consist of multiple sessions each month, with a choice of mornings from 9 to 11:30 AM or afternoons from 12:30 to 3 PM at Flanders’ Trail House on Church Hill Road in Woodbury.

The first series for “Outdoor Rangers” will be starting September 14, and “Be Smart with Art”, on September 16, where the children will explore the different homes of insects, birds, mammals, and amphibians in the many picturesque natural areas of Flanders’ woods, fields, and trails. The theme for September is Habitat Hunt and habitat means home. Children make important connections between animal behavior, habitat and survival.

In addition to these exploratory daily hikes, there’ll be activities such as game-playing, nature stories, songs, craft projects, and time to snack.

While exploring Flanders' habitats, "Be Smart with Art" will feature many art activities designed to develop drawing and painting skills for the children while promoting a knowledge and appreciation of the natural world.

Registration and advance payment by mail or in person are required for these programs. Space is limited to 10 students.

For fee information and more details, those interested are asked to call Flanders at 203-263-3711, extension 10, or visit the web site at www.flandersnaturecenter.org.

Former Be Smart with Art student Emily Kern.

###